Vinification and blending

At Debordes' farm, it has been a family story for 4 generations, from fathers to sons! It all started with Gérard and his polycropping farm in the 1950s. In 1972, his son Jean-Claude carried on with the savoir-faire and built a winemaking cellar: Debordes are no longer cooperative-winegrowers but winemakers-winegrowers. The year 1996 is Xavier's arrival at the farm! He takes his turn developing the farm by specializing it in winegrowing only. This resulted in the vineyard's extension up to 36 hectares. Today, Xavier's son, Cyprien, joined the farm and they continue together the wine adventure with passion and generosity. Both land lovers, the father-son duo makes pleasure wines in keeping with the family tradition!
